

1 ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

2 A door lock includes a cylinder with a core installed in a door A flat 3 finger is connected with the core. A latch is movably provided in a latch hole of 4 the door and the flat finger extends through the latch. An inner cover is provided 5 at an interior surface of the door opposite to the cylinder and has a plurality of 6 sink holes defined therethrough for a plurality of first screws extending through 7 the sink holes and engaged in the threaded holes. An outer cover is provided 8 outside the inner cover to conceal the inner cover. A knob is provided outside the 9 outer cover and has a hollow shaft extending through the outer cover and the 10 inner cover and connected with the finger. Whereby, when the knob is turned, the 11 latch can be extended or retracted to lock/unlock the door.